

Danisha Jordan

BS in Human Services

Anticipated graduation date: December 2015

Bio:

I originally attended Gordon because I thought I wanted to be a nurse, until I realized I hated touching people. However going throughout the nursing program helped me realize what I really wanted to do in life. It is counseling. Once I graduate from Gordon I plan on going to graduate school and earning a master's in social work. Throughout my many years here at Gordon I have not only realized my calling but I've met many encouraging and eager students along the way. I have also come into contact with many helpful and inspiring professors, who through their passion for their subject helped me tremendously with not only class assignments but internships and inviting many speakers to aid in my further growth in my field. I feel very honored to be able to be a part of this college.
