Brief Bio:

March of 2014, I was honorably discharged from the United States Navy and moved to my wife's hometown just near Gordon State College. I Came to Gordon with a strong desire to learn the sciences and knew that a four-year degree in biology was ideal for me. I have been doing some real reflection and soul searching on what my passion is in the last year and I have come to the conclusion that I belong in a career that involves personal fitness, motivating others and constantly improving my own well being.

I plan to earn my degree and concurrently earn my certified personal trainer certificate. With no break in time, I plan to apply for a Physical Therapy program at various colleges. I am a husband, father, Navy reservist/disabled veteran, adult-learner mentor and wellness enthusiast. I have to juggle a lot of responsibilities but I would not have it any other way.
